THEY'VE GOT YOUR NUMBER—AND YOU CAN HAVE THEIRS

At OneStop, seasoned business development professionals from economic development programs and agencies are eager and waiting to help you succeed—now. They'll give you advice, point you in all the right directions, and work hard to make sure your business gets the incentives, services and support it needs at all stages—from start-up to maturity.

What can they help you with specifically? See the box in the right column for a partial list.

These helpful professionals aren't just looking out for you; they're looking ahead, too, keeping an eye on important trends, meeting regularly to discuss the critical local, national and international issues affecting your business, and analyzing the business community's needs to help improve the overall business climate of Onondaga County.

Questions? Call any of them, anytime. They want to help you.

WHY DO BUSINESS HERE? THE CLIMATE'S BETTER!

We won't take this opportunity to boast about how our climate provides four seasons' worth of unsurpassed recreational opportunities for Central New York employees. Right now, we're talking about the business climate. And for your business, the climate is better!

In addition to the low cost of doing business here, the diversity of our businesses and industries has given us stability in our jobs growth and economy virtually unmatched anywhere. Housing prices, too, have remained stable, and the quality of life here is about as good as it gets. (We were recently ranked #2 in the nation among mid-sized metro areas for relocating families.)

We're also nationally recognized for the high productivity and low absenteeism of our workforce, some of which comes from the nearby 35 colleges and universities nearby, many doing the kinds of research that can put your company on the leading edge.

Combine all that with our variety of arts, professional and collegiate sports, and world-class golf courses, and it's clear that Onondaga County has the perfect climate for growing your company.
